CORR FOUNDATION HISTORY

The CORR Foundation was created by Bruce & Liz Leary on September 8, 2006 and is recognized as being exempt under Section:501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

The Purpose of the CORR Foundation was & is to provide a refuge which will give selected parolees the opportunity of learning to live and work together in family community, participating in a faith-based program that emphasizes acceptance, forgiveness, and accountability in the pursuit of personal skill development & Biblically-based ministry outreaches.

On October 21, 2006, the Trustees of the CORR Foundation added Southwest College of Biblical Studies as a ministry of the Foundation. This Bible college, under the name "Southern California Bible College (SCBC)", offered courses to prisoners at R.J. Donovan Correctional Facility in San Diego from 1990-1998. In June of 1998, by mutual agreement of the leadership of SCBC, Bruce Leary applied & received approval to/from the Department of Post-Secondary & Vocational Education in Sacramento to form a separate & new college called Southwest College of Biblical Studies.

The trustees have established a 20-person advisory board who provide pertinent experience & relevant guidance when consulted. The trustees have, since the Foundation's inception, developed a land-search network & have actively pursued land for the CORR Ranch ("City of Refuge Ranch").
